Wine Region: Awatere Valley, Marlborough    Date Established: 08/08/08    Winemaker: Tamra Kelly-Washington

The Yealand Winery is New Zealand's leading environmentally sustainable winery based in the Awatere Valley, Marlborough. Developed by entrepreneur Peter Yealands, the privately-owned winery features advanced green technology in every aspect of design and function.

Yealands Family Wines launched to great acclaim on 08/08/08 and has collected more than 600 wine medals to date, including the award for "New Zealand Wine Producer of the Year" at the International Wine & Spirit Competition in 2014.

Yealands Family Wines is the first in the world to be carbonZero since inception. The winery and vineyards are also accredited under Sustainable Winegrowing New Zealand.

New Zealand's largest solar panel installation, recycling, along with thorough composting efforts are a few among the many sustainability initiatives in practice at the winery. The vineyards are home to 25 man-made wetlands with over 200,000 native shrubs and faunas that serve as a refuge to native birds. The introduction of Babydoll sheep (an endangered breed, too small to reach fruit in the vine canopy) to mow the grass and fertilize the vines has further reduced Yealand's environmental footprint.

Yealands's commitment to their sustainability platform has resulted in numerous international accolades including: 'New Zealand Wine Producer of the Year' International Wine & Spirit Competition 2014, 'World Champion 2014' International Green Apple Awards, 'International Green Company of the Year' 2014 Drinks Business, and 'Most Socially or Environmentally Responsible Company of the Year' International Best in Biz Awards 2014.
